

DECISION RELATIVE TO LABOR UNION INVOLVES RIGHT TO DECLINE TO WORK WITH NON-UNION MEN.

New York Court of Appeals Decision That a Strike May Be Ordered on Such Ground—Three of the Justices Dissent.

THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M. ALBANY (N. Y.) April 1.—The question of whether or not members of a labor union have the right to decline to work with non-union men, and to order a strike to have such right respected, was determined in the affirmative by the Court of Appeals today in a decision handed down in the case of the National Protective Association of Steam Fitters and Helpers, Charles McQuinn, appellant, against James Cummins, respondent. J. D. Jones, as treasurer of the Enterprise Association, intervened with others.

The court is divided in its decision, the prevailing opinion being written by Chief Justice Parker and concurring in by Judges Gray, O'Brien and Calhoun. It is dissented from by Judges Bartlett, Martin and Van.

BARBERS IN A TANGLE. THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M. SACRAMENTO, April 1.—The journeymen barbers and the boss barbers are in a tangle. Both sides declare that a strike is bound to come on April 15.

MOD CARRIERS STRIKE. THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M. PORTLAND (Or.) April 1.—The mod carriers of Portland went on strike today in obedience to orders from their union. Bricklayers and plasterers are therefore compelled to lay off for lack of material. The mod carriers are paid $1.50 a day for masons and $1.00 for wheelmen. They have been receiving $2 and $2.50 respectively, a day of eight hours. About three hundred men are affected by the strike.

ENGINEERS GOT OUT. THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M. BUTTE (Mont.) April 1.—The stationary engineers of the Anaconda mines struck tonight. Nine properties are tied up and over three thousand men thrown out of work.

COAL MINERS STRIKE. THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M. HAGENAW (Mich.) April 1.—The strike of the Michigan coal miners on several days ago after the conference between the operators and miners failed to agree on a scale for the year. About 1100 miners are out in this country. Almost the same number of men have quit the mines at their city, and in the St. Charles district.

LINEMEN QUIT. THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M. PITTSBURGH (Pa.) April 1.—The electric linemen of Pittsburgh and Allegheny struck today for an increase of pay from $2.50 to $3 for a nine-hour day. About five hundred men are out.

Michael J. Fleming, a prominent lawyer of Pittsburgh and formerly president of the Pennsylvania High School, related the following anecdote:

"One day at school I gave a very bright boy a lesson on a scale, and though the problem was comparatively easy, he couldn't do it. I remarked: 'You should be ashamed of yourself. At your age, you should be a lawyer.' 'Yes, sir, and at your age he was President of the United States,' (Philadelphia Times).

YOU can more than double the value of your piano if you have a—

Pianola

Wouldn't you consider your piano more valuable if it were an instrument every member of your family could play, and that without spending more than a few hours time in practice? The Pianola literally makes the piano an instrument that everyone can play, even the smallest child. Requires no study of music—no practice; simply attach the Pianola and the world's music is at your command.

W. W. D. Turner, formerly of Seattle, Wash., for a price reported to be something over $50,000. WIDEAWAKE ST. LOUISANS. Here to Secure Exhibits for Their Great World's Fair and to Boom the Cause.

Two officials of the St. Louis World's Fair, Charles M. Reeves, secretary of the Committee on Legislation, and Frederick W. Taylor, chief of the Department of Agriculture, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday morning and were escorted about town all day by Frank Wiggins of the Chamber of Commerce.

The two St. Louisans have come to the far West to arouse the coming exhibition, which they declare will be the world's surpassing show, and to make plans to the people here as to plans and possibilities. Mr. Taylor is a veteran in exhibit work, having been chief of the horticultural department at Omaha and Buffalo, and also handled the midway concessions at the American. Mr. Reeves is a St. Louis newspaper man, and is well fitted for the position which he occupies.

"We are very anxious to get a good exhibit from this section," said Mr. Taylor yesterday. "Everything from here is of great interest to the public at large, and from my acquaintance with Mr. Wiggins at Buffalo and the fact which he planned and managed there, I know what the things to expect. We intend to furnish every facility possible to exhibitors, and we have the largest acreage and the best buildings of any fair ever planned in this country. It will be a splendid chance of advertisement for every business and great pecuniary results will certainly be reaped by such make creditable exhibits."

Today at the Chamber of Commerce the visitors will address the directors on the subject of the coming fair. After several days here and a trip to San Diego, they will swing back to St. Louis via San Francisco, the northern States of the Coast and Utah. On the way here they made official visits at Albuquerque and Santa Fe, N. M. Both are wideawake types of the business American, and are enthusiastic in the cause—their stupendous, spirited undertaking—which they represent.

WONDERFUL CAVE. Walls and Roof are Beautiful and Hundreds of Tons of Precious Ore are Stored About It.

THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M. BUTTE (Mont.) April 1.—A special to the Miner from Kendall says a most wonderful cave was discovered in the Abbey mine. In abundant novelty this cave surpasses anything of the kind yet encountered in a gold mine.

A peculiar feature of this freak of nature is that it is found in an immense ore body.

The main chamber in the cave presents a most beautiful appearance. Portions of the walls are decorated with masses of crystallized lime, and the roof is hung with stalactites. On the floor of the cave are hundreds of tons of ore that have been broken down from the vein, as one side of the cave is formed by the foot wall of the ore body.

RESIGNS FROM FACULTY. Outcome of Quarrel Over Medical College Clinics.

Dr. O. O. Witherbee, superintendent of the County Hospital, has resigned the chair of physiology in the Medical College. The executive board of the college has not yet acted on the resignation, and its acceptance is doubtful.

For five years Dr. Witherbee has been instructor of physiology at the college, and has been popular with students and fellow-members of the faculty. The attacks of two professors on the superintendent because he performed operations, and the disclosures regarding the inhuman phases of the enforced-clinic system, have caused Dr. Witherbee to offer to step out of the faculty, if his course is to be condoned.

BARBER COLLEGE HEARS FROM CALISH. PRESIDENT OF BARBER COMMISSION LETS HIMSELF LOOSE.

Declares That the Students Must Salute Him as if He Were "The Purple She"—Torrent of Profanity for the Institution.

One of our busiest little public officials nowadays is John J. Calish, president of Gov. Gage's State Barber Commission, at $5 per day. Monday evening, following the triumphant procession of the commission through the Chinese barber shops, Mr. Calish made a private inspection on his own hook of one of the barber colleges.

Mr. Calish loves his work so that when the other commissioners are still sleeping, something commands him to rise up and carry out the heathen word of the glorious harvest of the Gage administration.

It was an honor unexpected by the barber college.

The faculty were all absent; only a few students at the practice chairs were at home.

They thought Calish had come in for a free shave and greeted him with a glad smile of welcome, all unaware what the real rank of their visitor was.

Calish drew himself up as haughty as a man who has just paid his rent. The students drew back, withered by his glance.

At last he spoke. "Why in hell don't you salute your superior officer?"

A gleam of the truth dawned upon the students, timidly.

"Who are you?" asked one of the students, timidly.

"I am," said Calish, with a lingering caress on that dearest of words, "an officer of the State Barber Commission."

"Tableau!"

"I saw by the Times you were here," ventured one of the students. Alas, unhappy youth.

Calish gave him one fierce glare. "The Times," he snorted. "The Times!"

"[N. B. The grief caused by what Mr. Calish said about the Times is yet too fresh and keen to have the remarks laid bare here. Besides the edition would be thrown out of the mails.]

When he stopped for breath, they asked him if he had come down to license them for barbers. Calish fairly gave a howl of rage.

"Give you certificates? Certificates? I wouldn't give certificates to the graduate of a barber's college; not if he had been a barber for twenty years after he had quit the thing."

Then he got his breath and sailed into barber colleges which are indeed heinous offenders inasmuch as they are not agreeable to the union.

Finally Calish fairly got warmed up and swung into the real fire of true eloquence. He told the students what a cinch "Emery" was going to have and how other presumptuous pretenders were not one-two-three.

Asked one of our City Fathers the other day if we found a ready market for all our fruits, vegetables, etc. "Yes," replied his alderman, "those things seem to sell well as all of the markets except the new city market." Los Angeles is getting to be a great place—you can find a market for almost anything you want to sell if you are willing to sell it at a fair price. We wonder how some people can get $2.50 or $4.00 for hats when we can get the same hats for $2.00. We see them wearing tailor made suits which they say they paid $50 and $60 for. We really couldn't afford to make clothing as cheap as some of those suits are made. We make only highest quality suits and we make them at $25, $30 and $35.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE—IN THE COURTS AND OFFICES.

ALL TARRED WITH THE SAME STICK.

It was not Manager Warren Wilson of the Los Angeles Daily Journal who said, "Consistency thou art a jewel." For getting around all sides of a ticklish question in record time Manager Wilson will be accorded the palm, friends and all.

Pickwickian indeed has been the hearing before the Council on the matter of public printing. The Journal, the Express, Record and Herald have all been in the stew, so to speak. They have all been tarred with the same stick.

But Wilson has been the bright "particular star." From the first he has held the center of the stage. Under the full glare of the calcium light he has danced the Highland fling first with the Record and Express, now with the Herald.

Great fun has been provided the Councilmen whom these same newspapers have accused of divers dark deeds in the days that have passed. With glee they have urged on the combat, dancing round and round the Journalists as if they were wild beasts.

"Bubbe, bubbe! Told and trouble," cried the Journalists, as they were being danced round.

As an exchange of courtesies the Journalists have been provided the Councilmen whom these same newspapers have accused of divers dark deeds in the days that have passed. With glee they have urged on the combat, dancing round and round the Journalists as if they were wild beasts.

WELL-KNOWN WOMAN ADJUDGED INSANE.

PROMINENT IN VARIOUS CLUBS OF LOS ANGELES.

Mrs. Clara B. Fisher loses her mind and is sent to Highland—She imagined that she was going to marry a Millionaire.

Mrs. Clara B. Fisher, a more or less prominent club woman of Los Angeles, whose home is at the corner of Ingraham and Whittier streets, was adjudged insane by Judge Shaw yesterday and ordered committed to the State Hospital at Highland. She is a member of the Ruskin Art Club and has lectured before the Friday Morning Club. The examining physicians were Dr. H. G. Brainerd and Dr. William Dodge.

The complaint against Mrs. Fisher was sworn to by her sister, Mrs. Ruby Goodwin of No. 523 Ceres avenue.

For the last ten days the unfortunate patient has been under treatment at the California Hospital, but failed to improve, until finally it seemed necessary, for her own safety and that of her friends, to make a test of her sanity. During the entire examination yesterday she stoutly protested that she was made the victim of intrigue and revenge.

In the courtroom Mrs. Fisher presented a most striking figure. She is tall in stature, of excellent form and physique, and although 45 years of age, she has the appearance of a woman of more than passing good looks and very strong features. She swept into the presence of the judge and doctors with all the dignity of a queen, wearing a long, navy-blue gown, and when she began to realize exactly the opinion of the experts as to her mental condition, she arose to her feet in all majesty and pleaded with Dr. Brainerd, especially, and Judge Shaw to save her. She used good language, and showed excellent education. "Oh," she begged, "you are not going to allow them to send me to an insane asylum where I shall be forgotten. The doctor, to quiet her, said that he would do all he could for her."

Then she opened up on Judge Shaw. "Don't you know, judge, that I am entitled to five examining physicians, and that they should be chosen by me? That's the law, didn't you know it?"

The court calmly reminded her that two doctors were enough.

MILLIONAIRE LOVERS.

Mrs. Fisher's fixed delusion is that she is going to marry a millionaire. She has been for a long time past, she has been seen often around the leading hotels of Los Angeles stating that she had expected to meet certain persons of wealth and that she would marry them. She has even been seen with a man who she claimed was a millionaire.

A young lady in the neighborhood of her Ingraham-street home has earned her evening's displeasure for "slandering away some of these fancied millionaires," and the woman has threatened her with all sorts of dire punishments.

It is related that, during the last few years Mrs. Fisher has traveled through many parts of the United States to meet men whom she thought she was going to marry.

Another one of her failings is art and kindred subjects.

Her present attack began about three years ago, and has gradually been growing worse. She has lived in California for twenty years, and is a widow, her husband having been a minister of the gospel. About a year ago she was arrested on a charge of insanity and placed temporarily in the County Hospital, from which she made a sensational escape by crawling down a pipe out of a second-story window. Afterward she was found hiding in the bushes, but it was not deemed necessary by Judge Allen to send her to Highland.

According to the complaint against Mrs. Fisher yesterday, the sister charged her with being restless, noisy, sleepless and violent. She had a way of roaming the streets at night and refusing to be controlled. She frequently threatened suicide, and great care had to be exercised to see that she did not get hold of poison and sharp tools. Once she wanted her sister to get a rope and hang her. She would buy articles of food and then throw them away, and once tried to burn the house. Recently on a Santa Monica car she acted so strangely that the conductor telephoned the police to be on hand to arrest her.

Dr. W. W. Hittchcock, having visited her at the California Hospital lately, agreed with the findings of the other doctors.

WALLED BITTERLY.

After the examination had ended yesterday, and while Judge Shaw was making out the commitment, she made an impassioned appeal to the court. "Oh, call up Mr. Long of the box factory," she cried, "before the judge writes those horrible words that take away my liberty."

Then they handed her a copy of the commitment. As she read it over carefully, she sank into a chair and moaned aloud. Then a female attendant, who had been standing by, came over her and said, "Don't worry, Mrs. Fisher, you are not going to be put in a crazy house. You are only going to be put in a hospital where you can get the best of medical treatment."

By this time deputies laid hold of her and took her to the State Hospital. She was taken to a room where she was to remain for two hours for a train to Highland, and she resisted them to the bitter end.

"O God! O God!" she wailed. "Don't take me away from my beautiful home. Don't take me away from my beautiful home. Don't take me away from my beautiful home."

POLICE OVERSTOCKED WITH CRIMES.

CLAIM THEY CAN'T GET COMPLAINTS FOR INSANES.

Drunk Thought He Was at Home in Dublin—Young Girl Stole Pretty Clothes—Friedenberg Convicted of Stealing Copies of "The Times."

Tom Howley, a little Irish boy, was brought in to the Police Court yesterday for vagrancy; he had asked alms on the street.

The boy was in the tortures of nervous distress, and was evidently unbalanced, judging from the character of his replies and from the stare of his eyes.

It was one of the cases over which the police are making a great stew. There is a great pulling and hauling now between the police in the Superior Court. The police claim that they can't get complaints for insane people. Police officers assert that they have been obliged to turn loose many dangerous characters because they cannot secure complaints.

The police claim that a complaint was refused for Jounkalt, the crazy man who broke loose from the County House, and held the police at bay with a gun after taking pot shots at everybody in sight.

Police Court the other day a colored girl was tried for a vicious and apparently causeless attack on her sister.

She had been examined in the Superior Court for insanity, and had been discharged.

The officers say they tried to get a complaint for Howley and failed.

Officers in charge of the insane business of the Superior Court claim that no complaints have been refused arbitrarily, but the police have been in the habit of dumping delirious tremens cases on the county. After an expensive examination, it would be usually discovered that their mania was nothing more than a case of too much booze.

Yesterday the court was required to strong arm a madman into a complaint.

Howley was found guilty of begging, and will be sentenced tomorrow.

Thought He Was in Dublin.

Misther William Byrne was sitting at the happy memory of his childhood on the curbing in front of the Herald Block when the policeman on the beat found him early yesterday morning. He was drunk and remonstrated.

"Get up," said the cop. "Where do you live?"

"I live on Whitefield street," he said with dignity before issuing complaints.

"There isn't any such street," protested the policeman.

"I know that," said Byrne. "I mind now that I moved. I live near the Campbell Church."

"Go on the salted policeman, who happened to know. 'You're not in Dublin now.'"

"I am too yourself," said Byrne. "I am too in Dublin. Where should I be?"

He was taken to jail and jumped his bail, failing to appear in the Police Court yesterday.

POLICEMEN.

Charles Freidenberg was found guilty yesterday of stealing copies of the Times. He will be sentenced to jail.

Adeline Edelman, a young girl, was convicted of petty larceny in the Police Court yesterday. She entered a room in the lodging-house where she boarded, and stole a silk skirt and two pairs of shoes. She will be sentenced this morning.

Andrew Demont, a boy who works at a hotel in this city, was so delighted at being really drunk Monday night, that he sallied along the street about 9 o'clock, and the evening's slapping everybody he met on the back, women included. Justice Morgan fined him $5.

OLD PROSPECTOR CRIED OVER DEAD DOG.

HIS ONLY CHUM SHOT BY LOS ANGELES POLICEMAN.

The Poor Old Man Picked Up the Bleeding Carcass and Hugged it Tightly to His Breast, While His Tears Fell.

Old Man Dunbar is going back to his little ranch in the hills, all alone. His old dog, Billy, was killed yesterday by a Los Angeles policeman. Billy was all the world to the old prospector.

They lived together like two old chums. They had grown old together.

Part of the year Billy and his master attended to the little ranch near Riverside. The rest of the time, they hooked up the old buckboard and wandered off into the mountains dreaming their dreams of gold mines together. They shared their food, and they slept together under the stars. When the old man was glad and hummed a little tune, they were both very happy, and when the sun went under a cloud Billy mooped and was sad. Billy had woven his way into the old man's life as no human friend could have done. The town was no place for either of them. They belonged out under the great open sky, where all the world is kind.

But a few days ago they hooked up the old buckboard again, and drove to the city. They arrived day before yesterday.

Dunbar and Billy had misgivings about hotels. They put up the buckboard at Kingman's corral, and got permission from Kingman to sleep in the office building.

Billy was so worried about their nagging with the dog, that he was so delighted at the sight of the city so excited his suspicions, that he couldn't sleep and he half starved. Billy was lying down outside and pretending to be asleep, but really waiting for a hostile move on the part of the big glaring electric light.

In the middle of the night some one rifled the pockets of Dunbar, his old master, taking $17 and more.

In the morning Dunbar was very indignant. He hitched up the buckboard and drove up through the busy streets to the Police Station to charge Kingman's son, Archie Kingman, with robbing him.

He left Billy down in the street to look after the buckboard.

The rattle of the teams over the cobble stones, and the roar of the traffic in the middle of the street below, and the people hurrying to and fro grated on the old dog's nerves. It may have been because Billy's conscience was a little tender about that midnight robbery when he wasn't on post. Anyhow, he was feeling snappish.

Detective Auble came by the buckboard and took Billy to the Police Station. Billy resented by biting the detective's leg. Auble took him off and went into the detective's office, and Billy retired under the buckboard, muzzling and grumbling to himself about this noisy city, which he didn't like at all.

Presently, Auble came out of the detective's office again.

Billy recognized him, and—

But it is no use comparing stories and splitting it down to see who's fault was and how much justification the detective had. Pining things down to figures will not bring Billy back to life.

There was a sudden crack of a pistol, and when Dunbar came down from the courtroom, Billy lay stretched out under the wagon, stone dead. The old man picked up the body of his old chum, and hugged the bleeding carcass tight in his arms.

When he realized that Billy had barked his last happy bark, and that he must go home alone, the old prospector cried like a child.

He sat on the rough cobble-stone pavement, stroking the dogs fur and talking to him brokenly, while the stars rolled down his furrowed old cheeks.

"They could have had my horse and my wagon and everything I had on earth, if they could only have left me my dog," he said.

Successful Because of Public Confidence

THERE is nothing surprising in our rapid growth and development into the greatest merchandising center of Southern California—if you will stop to think that we always have the goods the people want—we always price them right—we give no discounts, commissions or credits to any one—and we always keep faith with our public: Goods are always found as advertised—quality as always represented. And thus it is we have the public's confidence, and sell more goods at retail for cash than any store in California.
